Yesterday Was One of 'The Warmest.

COATS WERE "SHUCKED"

It Was a Regular Ice Cream and Sarsaparilla Day, Say the Experts.

Old Sol hung out the heat signal yesterday and paid his respects to the den!zens of Honolulu and Oahu generally by a red-hot sizzle. The thermometer trembled yesterday as Old Sol played a lively tattoo upon the mercury bulb. It ran from 71 to 87, according to Professor Lyon's official thermometer at Punahou. Eut Punahou isn't Honolulu, properly speaking. It is far removed from the torrid zone where the business man swelters from eight to ten hours a day. Downtown Sol seemed to be trying his best to give the soda water counters a good turn, and so he did, for thirsty, suffering humanity stood in long lines in the vicinity of the drug stores and took their turns in quaffing sarsaparillas and vanillas with chunks of cold ice cream thrown

The coatless brigade early put in an as pearance on the streets. The man who were red suspenders and a blue shirt did not take into consideration that he looked like a plantation laborer. He was out for comfort-what there was to be gained by shucking his coat.

"Whew! What do you think of this for hot?" was the general query. If two men striped each other on the street, each $26.50. quizzed the other about his impressions of the state of the mercury in the thermometer, and both mopped their foreheads and streaming faces vigorously. Stand-up collars had a bear movement yesterday, some of the stock brokers asserted. They went down pretty fast, Laydown collars fared little better, and handkerchiefs finally decorated the necks of the male genus in lieu of the wilted linen. wholesale agents. Professof Berger, who wields the baton for the band, says that the weather man's accounts of the condition of the thermometer are very weak. "Vot, only 87!" said Herr Berger yesterday. "Dose mergur-Herr Berger yesterday. "Dose mergur-ler is lazy. In a down-town professional man's office the mercury was observed about every fifteen minutes, or when the gentleman had an opportunity to stop mopping his countenance and could gaze at its climbing antics. It registered 95!

The heat of yesterday, although the gereral average of 78,3 does not indicate it to a layman's mind, was greater than at any other time this season. The low average was due to the great amount of meisture in the air, and this oppressed the system. When the dewpoint is indicated at a low registration, the evapora-Friday, August 3. There were no sun-spots on Old Sol's face yesterday, says the weather man. If Am. sehr.
